

Why has my child been referred to an orthodontist?

Your dentist has identified a concern that needs specialist orthodontic advice, such as impacted or misaligned teeth. The orthodontist will examine your child's mouth and advise you what treatment is needed. You can also see an orthodontist without a referral if you wish.

Why is an orthodontist the right choice?

Your child's smile is very important, that is why you should only see an expert. Every orthodontist has dedicated their career to creating healthy, happy smiles that last. It's not worth taking the chance with inferior fixes that can cost you more in the long run.

Orthodontists use the latest evidence-based science to accurately diagnose and safely treat your child's teeth and bite problems.

Whether it's a simple or more complex problem, you can trust a specialist orthodontist to find the most suitable and advanced treatments for your child.

Orthodontics is the sole focus of an orthodontist. It's what they do all day, every day. This has given them the skills, experience and expertise to know what's best for your child's smile.

Does my child need orthodontic treatment?

An orthodontist deals with a range of bite problems that can have long-term effects on your child's health and confidence. Your orthodontist will suggest treatment to:

- correct bad bites that may damage teeth, gums and the jaw joints;
- prevent injury to protruding teeth;
- correct cosmetic problems to give them a confident smile;
- help overcome speech and chewing problems;
- advise on teeth cleaning to prevent decay and gum disease.

What is the best age to visit an orthodontist?

Many problems are easier to intercept if detected early, so Orthodontics Australia recommends undergoing first orthodontic assessment from the age of seven. In some cases early treatment may prevent more serious problems from developing. Having said that, anyone can see an orthodontist at any age (even as an adult) and no referral is required to make an appointment.

How are teeth straightened?

Your orthodontist will advise on the most suitable treatment for your child. Appliances today are often more light-weight, comfortable, and less visible than in the past.

Depending on the severity of the problem, treatment can range from a simple removable plate to comprehensive fixed braces treatment.

What happens at the first consultation?

During your first visit, your orthodontist will examine your child's mouth, teeth and bite. The orthodontist may take x-rays, photographs and models of the teeth to help diagnose the extent of any problems your child is experiencing.

What are the next steps?

Your orthodontist will advise you on the treatment options available, when the treatment will start, and how long treatment will take. You will also be given an estimate of the fees and an opportunity to discuss the methods of payment.

What is an Orthodontist?

Orthodontists are dental specialists who are trained in the prevention, diagnosis and treatment of dental and facial irregularities. They provide a wide range of treatment options to straighten crooked teeth, fix bad bites and align the jaws correctly. While orthodontists are primarily known for straightening teeth, they can also assist with painful and misaligned bites, tooth movement caused by bad habits such as thumb sucking, and even some forms of sleep apnoea.

In Australia, orthodontists must be registered with the Australian Health Practitioner Regulation Agency (AHPRA) and must have:

- a degree in general dentistry;
- a minimum of two years' general dental practice experience;
- a Specialist Master's Degree or Doctor's Degree in Orthodontics.
